A Times' special says: As an indication of the President's latest temper on the situation of the construction affairs, witness the following extracts of his views, as recently expressed, in conversation with certain political friends, who called upon him for the purpose of urging him to reopen registration in the South. He informed them that he could not do so without incurring the cost of independence of civil duty, and that the construction laws confer on the District Military Commissioners sole control over registration. His only power of interference was the right of commutation, when they failed to comply with the laws in accordance with his views of their legal construction. He also admitted that the District Commissioners are under direct authority of Congress, and that he could not interfere with their action. He should attempt to assume power as Commander in Chief to control the time of registration and holding elections. They would have the right to refuse to obey his orders, and they could be punished for insubordination if they did so. He stated that the recent promulgation of the amnesty proclamation threw upon Congress the burden of depriving legally qualified voters and soldiers and soldiers, and he hoped that the Southern people would appreciate it in that light. If any of the proposed measures, he continued, attempt to register and refuse to obey his orders, and they could be punished for insubordination if they did so. in consequence of which there is no fall grass and all vegetation is withered and scorched under the scorching rays of the sun. It is now more than two months since they have had enough rain to lay the dust one day.—At a late meeting of the Republican Standing Committee of Snyder county, Pa., the following among other resolutions, was adopted:Resolved, That in Andrew Johnson we find a fugitive, traitor and scoundrel, and therefore unworthy of a funeral and no funeral be given same as from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, the reducers of Pittsburgh lose the freight from the oil regions to the latter city. This is fatal to their be built after a modified plan of the Brooklyn City Hall—a very handsome public structure—and will cost from $175,000 to $200,000. We are

Schools are urged to report immediately, either issued for them that they may be admitted to the school at its opening.—Charles H. Van Dike, the messenger for the Merchants' National Express Company on the Niagara Falls and Rochester Road, committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a revolver at his residence in the latter city, on Tuesday evening last. He was a son of the late L. B. Van Dike, agent of the American Express Company, at Rochester, and extensively known. It is reported that he visited a fine bank the night before, and met with some loss, and that he was addicted to drink. The coroner's inquest may throw more light upon his mysterious death.—The Harrisburg Telegraph is responsible for the following snake story: Mr. Peter Altmire, of our city, one day last week, while gunning in the mountains back of Newport, came in contact with a black snake over thirty feet in length.

His membership carried his head four or five feet from the ground. Mr. A. fired at the monster while pointing him, and the shot rebounded as if it had been struck with an India rubber ball.
Other citizens were with Mr. Altmire, and vouch for the truth of the above. The snake after being shot at, ran down the side of the embankment, causing a fearful crash of everything with which he came in contact.

Quite the Heroine.

When Johnson prides of his dear love of the Constitution, even on the soil of "My Maryland," the soldiers his recent. Was ever a Chief Magistrate treated with such sovereign contempt, by the sovereign people? Whoever Sheridan goes, the people "delight to do him honor." And now "Little Phil" is on his way to Washington, and his coming inspires, we can imagine, the same confusion and dismay at the White House as did the hearts of the enemies of his country. The ovation along the track of the Hero of Winchester is not so much a tribute of admiration of the dashing Murat of our Army, whose presence was always the forerunner and inspiration to victory, as a token of respect to the man. If we could have made out a programme for Johnson, we should have coveted just this marriage for Sheridan. Like the pilgrimage to the tomb of Douglas, undertaken to create party capital for the Administration, it has produced just the opposite effect from what was fondly anticipated. Everywhere outside of New York, where "thrift might follow twining," Andy got the cold shoulder. And so in attempting to rebuke and chastise the Commander of the Fifth Military District, for laying the New Orleans massacre at his door, for refusing to rehabilitate Wells, for declining to re-open the rigistry for the special benefit of rebels, the President has overhauled the mark. He has provoked a most unfortunate issue for himself. He has "caught a Tartar." The "insubordination" which Johnson has sought to stamp out, seems to have acted like a contagion upon the people, and wherever Sheridan travels in the loyal North, he is hailed, and welcomed, and applauded as the embodiment of the principles of resistance to Executive usurpation, as the representative of the policy of Congress, as the champion of the cause of Republican liberty. His passage through the States of Ohio and Pennsylvania will be worth thousands of votes to the Republican party in the pending October elections. It will keep fresh in public recollection, the wrong without reason, which he has suffered at the hands of a Government, from which he deserved only honor—honor for military exploits, which have shed lustre on our arms, and honor for his bold, manly, honest course of civil administration at New Orleans. The party which takes Valdoughnigh to its chrysalis in Ohio, and Pennsylvania, the "Constitutional" adviser, Haven says the mark of James Buchanan, can derive little pleasure and less profit from the appearance of General Sheridan in Cincinnati or Pittsburgh, even though, unlike the "Albion," he neither sports a flag in one hand nor the Constitution in another, as the emblem of superservient loyalty. We wonder if the Commander-in-Chief will be good-natured enough to congratulate his "subordinate" on the multitude of friends that swarmed around him, on every note of his triumphal progress from bleeding Kansas, to the Capitol—the country abase, and the cities resounding with his plaudits. If the President does that, we are sure that modest, generous, kind-hearted "Little Phil" will not ungraciously ask of his "superior" to rub the trying experience of the Presidential party at Antietam, for—More time, Joe, March has called for it, This comes with a Senate at his heels.

The G. A. R. on the Political Situation.

A convention of the several posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in Philadelphia county, was held in Philadelphia city, at which was considered the present political situation. Resolutions were adopted setting forth the political status of the Grand Army, citing the cardinal principles of the organization. First, To maintain in civil life the same principles which it stood in arms under the national flag; which includes and supports equality, secure constitutional liberty in its fullness, and to vindicate the full and complete rights of every loyal American citizen. Second, Placing to the right of Union men of the South that shall not be neglected until they are thoroughly and completely protected in the exercise of every right of American freedom. The resolutions concluded as follows:Whereas, At the present critical juncture in the political history of the nation, any lack of sympathy with the party which espouses the principles of the success of which we have declared our devotion, any suspension on the part of individuals, in support of such principles, would be a direct aid to the enemies of the Republic, and the principles have been bitterly opposed, whether on the ground of personal feeling or from other causes, or any failure to do all that may be in their power to aid in perfecting the political party which represents it, would be a direct aid to the enemies of the Republic, and the principles have been bitterly opposed, whether on the ground of personal feeling or from other causes, or any failure to do all that may be in their power to aid in perfecting the political party which represents it, would be a direct aid to the enemies of the Republic, and the principles have been bitterly opposed,
